

Outlook

session 2 - web revival

From Hanna Dana Stokes <hast@itu.dk>Date Sat 10/25/2025 12:08 AMTo Hanna Dana Stokes <hast@itu.dk>

Hey everyone,

Thanks for today! I know I said I wouldn't write an e-mail, but I need to announce the winner of the music quiz- Mollie! And now that I'm already started...

- 1) I realized through your questions that sadgrl.online's "guides" section is lacking in some regards. In particular it could use a link to a guide on basic folder structure for a website. Here is a good one by 32bit Café, a learning focused website. Once you have this folder structure you can simply use whatever writing tool you want to edit your files and simply open your website locally by open the .html file using your choice of browser (no hosting needed yet).
- 2) I will test out having open work session during ETHOS Lab's open office hours. That is, on Thursdays at 14:00-17:00.
- 3) Also , the next two sessions I will go over some basics for those who are interested in the "Free Play" (fri lej) time. Next time on HTML/CSS/Collaging/Generating/Website Builders. And the time after that on hosting/domain/GitHub.
- 4) New on the club website
 - a. events
 - i. Oct 30th 10.15-11.15 Aktivistiske techstrategier og Dos and don'ts om AI at Fabrika Festival.
 - ii. Nov 21st at 16-17 Leaving Google (event not online except on the club website yet).
 - a. digital exploration
 - i. A Website Is A Room, a collective effort to collect websites that have the quality of "slowness". The inspiration for this week's theme.
 - ii. A webcrafting section at the bottom of the "useful_links" page.
 - b. week 2 slides are here.
- 5) If anyone wants to message sadgrl.online here is her guestbook.

God weekend,
Hanna